2025/26 őszi

This seminar operates in a workshop format, providing a supportive, collaborative environment for developing students' academic skills including writing in various genres, while it also offers them practice in giving and receiving constructive feedback from peers. During sessions, participants share their academic writing projects and receive constructive, practice-oriented feedback from peers and instructors. The course is designed to complement individual supervision as it focuses on clarity, structure and helps participants spot the good and improvable traits of their peers' works. It also cultivates a collegial environment that encourages open discussion of writing-related questions and project-related difficulties.
